NPH'ELIHM

THE SUPREME SOUTHERNER

ARTIST BIO

NPH'ELIHM was shaped by the culture before he ever tried to define it. A student first, he learned by listening closely to the boom and bap, the sting of the snare, the cadence riding the bottom end, and the bass falling in step with the heartbeat. A constant surveyor and perpetual note-taker, he built his craft by studying the greats and understanding how the smallest shift in frequency can change the feeling of a record.

Rooted in South Carolina and based in Florida, NPH'ELIHM carries that education into a Southern hip-hop voice that is reflective, melodic, rhythmic and unmistakably personal. As The Supreme Southerner, he blends conscious writing, soul, funk, melody and boom-bap instinct into music built to move both thought and room.

"Love me like a lyric, baby."
